

© JENNIE MILNER

SCHOOL SPEAKERS

Changing hearts and minds

Informing and empowering young people is one of the best ways to create a cruelty-free future.

Today's children will be tomorrow's decision-makers, doctors, teachers, journalists, parents, consumers and voters. This is why it is vital to show them that people have no right to abuse animals.

Can I do it?

Even though we have a dedicated UK-wide network, we still need more people to step forward and become school speakers. It's perfectly normal to find this a daunting prospect – you are not alone! However, we have all the training materials and advice needed to turn even the most nervous of you into a formidable school speaker.

“I feel that giving school talks is the most satisfying and uplifting thing I do for animals. When I get a good reaction from the students, it gives me hope for the future.”

Sheila Wilson, West Midlands

How much time do I need to give?

As little, or as much, time as you can spare, depending on your circumstances and other commitments. Every talk will help spread our message. However, the more talks you can give, the more students you will reach, and the more seeds of compassion you will plant.

empower

Speakers' training workshops

Our workshops are held all over the UK (usually on a Saturday), so there should be one near you some time over the course of the year. We also hold cookery demonstration training workshops for anyone wishing to take the veggie message to Food Technology students. The workshops cover the basics of speaking to students and the best way to present the issues. You will gain confidence and experience in handling the kind of questions commonly asked, and will be able to exchange ideas and experiences with like-minded people.

develop

Support, materials and advice all the way

If you don't feel ready to 'fly solo' after the training day, we can put you in touch with seasoned school speakers, with whom you can work in partnership until you gain enough confidence to give talks on your own. We have guidance booklets, videos, factsheets, leaflets and even examples of talks, which you can adapt to make your presentation visually stimulating and informative.

educate

What will it cost?

Not a penny! All our resources are available free of charge, and if schools don't offer to pay, we will cover your travel expenses.

inform

How do I get more information?

Fill in the form opposite and we'll be in touch. This is your chance to inspire the next generation, make the world a kinder place, and develop your own personal skills!

Send us your details today!

Please send me more information on becoming an Animal Aid

SCHOOL SPEAKER

Name:

Address:

Postcode:

Phone:

Email:

Animal Aid

The Old Chapel,
Bradford Street, Tonbridge,
Kent TN9 1AW

Tel: 01732 364546

(ex 34 or 21)

education@animalaid.co.uk

www.animalaid.org.uk

communicate